Albany Community Action Partnership (ACAP) supports the progress of individuals and their families to economic self-sufficiency. Our programs are dedicated to providing individuals and families with the right skills and confidence needed to begin a successful career. Each certification is offered by Schenectady County Community College (SCCC) through a grant from HHS.

Its contents are solely the responsibility of the authors and do not necessarily represent the official views of HHS. The HPOG program is a demonstration project funded by the Administration for Children and Families (ACF) in the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS). The primary goals of this project are to: 1) provide education and training to low-income individuals for occupations in healthcare that pay well; and 2) learn what kinds of education and training programs work. In order to learn what works, we are conducting a study requiring every person eligible for HPOG to be selected through a lottery system. Those not selected through the lottery will not be able to participate in HPOG, but will be able to enroll in any other services or programs for which they are eligible.*
